The Street is becoming almost universally bearish, particularly upon the Industrial and Granger stocks. Three of the first-named group and two of the last constituted to-day's stock market. Sugar Refining was pressed for sale promptly at the opening, and the only support it enjoyed came from the covering of shorts toward the close of business. The demand from that quarter rallied the price fractionally above the final figures of yesterday.

The transactions in it again footed up nearly 100,000 shares. Chicago Gas was also weak from the start, on selling that many of the Room traders believed to be for account of those identified with the management of the company; and though the price rallied, all of

Me Paid Un. Pormer Proprietor Hoyt Save. Rat Still Owes Mr. Hoys Personnity $100,000 Regular Examination of the Books-Cashler Wentworth's Talk with the Beteetives When They Found Bim,

At the resumption of the trial yesterday, in the General Sessions, of William P. Wentworth, formerly cashier of the Victoria Hotel, who is sconeed of dropping $10,000 from his footings of cash, in order to conceal stealings. Lawyer Levy recalled Hazen L. Hoyt, former proprietor of the hatel, for further cross-examination.

Mr. Lowy closely questioned Mr. Hoyt as to his relations with Thomas J. Montgomery, a pro-moter, who, it is said, her made and lost fortunes in the promotion of electrical enterprises, and who lived much at the Victoria Hotel. Mr. Hoyt testified that he had implicit confidence in Mr. Montgomery, and that Mr. Montgomery had acwest to all parts of the office, Westworth was authorized to cash Mr. Montmery's IOU's and to carry those IOU's in the cash drawer as cash. Wentworth was intructed not to enter the I O U's in the books, but to jump them with the cash. Mr. Hoyt's dealings with Mr. Montgomery in the last two years of his proprietorship of the hotel, which endedda November last, would aggregate $140,-I O U's in the cash drawer might have amounted to $6 teast $20,000. These IO U'a were cared to steeast $20,000. These I O U's were carried as cash for nine months while Mr. Montgonery was in Enrops. When he returned he made the I O U's good.

Mr. Montgonery, however, still owed Mr. Hoyt money. Mr. Hoyt could not asy positively whether it. was $100,000 or $200,000, but it was at least $100,000. He still retained implicit condiance in Mr. Montgomery. Mr. Hoyt testified that he did not direct Wentworth to enter in the books the I. O. U.'s given by Mr. Montgomery or others for the purpose of deceiving the heirs of the Stanfield estate, the joint proprietors of the hotel. He paid them regularly their share of the profits, and any money that was advanced to his riends was taken from his equal share of the profits.

friends was taken from his equal share of the profits.

Mr. Levy asked Mr. Hoyt if it was not the fact that from the time of the death of Mark M. Stanfield, his former partner in May, 1890, it had been the custom for the Knickerbocker Trust Company, the trustee under the will of Mr. Stanfield, to have the accounts of the hotel examined and approved each month. Mr. Hoyt said that it was. This was done each month from May 1, 1899, to May, 1803, and the accounts were always reported correct, although all this time Wentworth was the bookkeeper and cashier. Hesides this mosthly examination in May, 1893, a firm of expert accountants examined the ier. Hesides this mosthly examination in may, 1893, a firm of expert accountants examined the books and reported them correct, and thereupon Mr. Hoyt made a payment of nearly $33,000 to the Stanfield estate. Mr. Hoyt had no complaint to make against Wentworth, except that he believed he had lost $70,000 through Went-he believed he had lost $70,000 through Wentworth.

Detective Sergeant Sheridan testified that he and Detective Sergeant Vallely found Wentworth hiter his flight in Taylor's Hotel in Jersey City, Sheridan knew Wentworth well, and said, "Billy, you've got yourself into a tight place. They charge you with stealing $28,000 from the Victoris Hotel." Wentworth replied, "Why, I didn't get that much paging at all. I was a fool og o syway for those mum anyhow. If they try to do anything to me for this thing, I'll take two others away with me. Who makes this complaint?" Sheridan replied, "Mrs. Stanfield."

Detective Vallely then said to Wentworth, How much did you get?" and Wentworth, and, "I don't know; If I see those books I can straighten out the matter in no time. They can't examine my books. There was a man named Sprague who was ahead of me in the lotel, and he had a system that no one could inderstand. I very foolleshy followed it. Mr. Hoyt knew where I was when I was in Saratoga, and sent Edwin H. Babook, one of his clerks, been me."

THE REV. J. R. ADAMS THREATENED.

Me Opposes the Granting of a License for Stephen Abearn's Hotel.

BRUNSWICE, N. J., Sept. 28 .- A bitter feeling has been engendered between the moral and the saloon element in the southern part of Middlesex county over the application for a liquor license of Stephen Ahearn, owner of the Central Hotel at Browntown, a small village near Matawan. The license would have been granted as usual if the Rev. J. B. Adams and Charles Disbnow, who live near the hotel, had not presented a remonstrance signed by many residents of the locality. The Rev. Mr. Adams told the of the locality. The Rev. Mr. Adams told the Court that liquor was sold there on Sunday, that the place was leading the young men of the locality into ways of wickedness and that all sorts of vile goings on took place at the hotel at unseemly hours. Judge J. Kearny Rice laid the application over for two weeks until he could investigate the matter.

Since the preacher's appearance in court he has been made the subject of various threats and annoyances. His house has been stoned, and yesterday he received a threatening letter in which he was told that if he did not desert his house it would be burned over his head. "We shall do it, itwe hang for it," was the concluding threat in the anonymous letter. All the church people took sides with Mr. Adams and Mr. Disbrow, and the friends of Ahearn have been making it very unpleasant for the outspoken ones in the way of petty annoyances. All sorts of bodily harm have been predicted for the minister, who has drawn the attention of the authorities to his peril.

The Equitable Mortgage Company suspended on Aug. 31, 1893, and has for some time been in process of reorganization. About 98 per cent. of the $1,000,000 of debenture and hond holders and about 80 per cent. of the $2,100,000 of stockholders have assented to the plan of reorganization which was undertaken by Messra. Charles S. Fairchid, A. E. Henburg, and describe Coppeli as Reorganization Committee.
